

Mira Clark was born and raised in Nevada County. She has over 15 years of experience as an independent artist. Her work emphasizes collaboration, curiosity, and interconnectedness, using mixed-media storytelling to promote social and environmental awareness. For the past seven years, Clark has coordinated CHIRP's Visibility Through Art Initiative, facilitating collaboration between Nevada County artists and the Nevada City Rancheria Nisenan Tribe. In addition, she assists the Tribe in managing and curating 'Uba Seo: Nisenan Arts and Culture. Her artistic mission is rooted in building bridges across diverse communities and driving social change through the arts.
